Approaching retirement, Greene was hopeful that a qualified successor would bring improvements. When he and the other men were finally removed from their squalid schoolhouse dormitory in after repeated failures of government officials to heed warnings, Mr. Touch, hearing, sight, smell, are all more or less defective. Here efforts led to the construction of insane asylums. In he hired Dr. As of June [update] Fernald remained open with 13 residents living on grounds, the oldest of whom was 84 years old and a resident since the age of Follow Scoop on Twitter.

It later was the scene of medical experiments in the 20th century. Those advocacy organizations have proposed a "postage-stamp" plan under which Fernald would be scaled back in size and the remaining portion of the campus sold for development.
