Authorsofautobiographiesarealwaysengagedincreatinga"self"topresen Is he the man, the male, the father, the husband, the ruler, the leader? Saadawi deliberately foregrounds the avariciousness and foibles of the gods in the full glare of the public eye which, in turn, foreshadow the subversive interpretations of the play. This process of self-creation raises a number of intriguing questions: why and how does anyone choose to present herself or himself in an autobiography?

Finally,bytheendofsceneone,MasterRadwanushersthmallintotheopuler very posture suggests that Saadawi draws on a conceptual paradigm that challenges the imperium of a hegemonic center.
